Memorial Service

What is a celebration of life memorial service?

We understand that since March many people have not been able to give their loved ones the send-off they had wished for due to the government restrictions imposed on large gatherings and social distancing due to the pandemic. We are doing our best to help you pay your last respects and say goodbye to your loved ones. We know the importance of saying goodbye and having the opportunity to grieve, so we are offering you the ability in the future to arrange a celebration of life memorial service.

Our celebration of life memorial service can be arranged after the government restrictions on social gatherings have been lifted.

We will help you find a suitable venue for the service you wish to have, whether this is at a church, graveside, place of worship, hotel, or a private dining area in a pub or restaurant. It can be a formal or informal, religious or non-religious service, and can include the scattering or burying of the ashes in a special place. Or this could be an event to take place a year from now to mark the anniversary of the funeral. This would be an occasion for family and friends to all get together to share memories and celebrate the life of the deceased.

Our friendly experienced team at your local funeral home will arrange the celebration of life memorial service for you and the service will be attended by our Funeral Director.
